THE WOMAN WITH THE ISSUE OF BLOOD

But you see his [Jairus'] dullness: how he requires two things of Christ: His actual presence, and the laying on of His hand... Why did [the woman] not approach him boldly? She was ashamed on account of her affliction, accounting herself to be unclean... since in fact that complaint was under the law considered a great uncleanness.. And this is the first woman who came to Him in public, having heard, of course, that He heals women also, and that He is on His way to the little daughter who was dead... He does not suffer her to be hidden, but brings her into their midst; and He makes her manifest for many purposes... Do you see the superiority of the woman to the ruler of the synagogue? She did not detain Him; she took no hold of Him, but only touched Him, and even though she came later, she was the first to go away healed...

RAISING THE RULER'S DAUGHTER: DEATH WAS, FROM THAT TIME FORWARD, A SLEEP

Before her resurrection, He raises her in His words, saying, 'The maid is not dead, but sleeping.' And with... respect to Lazarus also, He says, 'Our friend Lazarus is sleeping.' (Jn. 11:11)... He is teaching us not to fear death: for that it is not death, but has henceforth become a sleep... Let no man therefore torture himself any further, nor wait, nor disparage Christ's achievement. For indeed He overcame death. Why then do you wail for nothing? Henceforth it is now a sleep.

St. John Chrysostom. Homily XXX on Matthew IX, 1, 2, 3, 4. B# 54, PP. 205-207.
